POLARIS RACING TAKES THE WIN AT ARC QUEENSLAND

Wet slippery roads and hazardous conditions including a couple of cows on the edge of the road didn't deter the Polaris Racing team at last weekend's Australian Rally Championship (ARC) round on the Sunshine Coast in Queensland. The Rally saw the Polaris Racing Team with driver Cody Crocker and co-driver Greg Foletta take the win. Polaris Racing continues to lead the SXS (side by side) class with maximum points.

"The Queensland Rally is a pretty rough rally, but that's what we love in our car, hitting all those bumps and jumps and looking at all the rally cars that have broken down littering the side of the road," said Cody Crocker.

In second place was the Polaris dealer "ARB Tamworth" team with driver Iain Hughes and co-driver Adam Barnes and in fourth place out of six competitors were newcomers Chris Rosch and Adam Green who have been working tirelessly getting their RZR race ready over the past couple of weeks after only deciding to have a go at the ARC in the middle of June.

"Iain and Adam had a great run in Queensland, on the Sunday they placed second by only 86 seconds. With each Rally that passes they are closing the gap and putting more pressure on the other competitors which is great to see, I look forward to seeing the competition they bring to Rally Australia in September" said Crocker

Over the weekend the only parts changed on Polaris Racing's RZR XP 900 was one set of tyres. "To use only one set of tyres and no other parts over a weekend of racing is simply amazing. The RZR is awesome fun, costs very little to run and this particular machine has lasted us four Rally events so far and it has performed faultlessly which is truly remarkable," said Greg Foletta.

On a somber note, Polaris Racing would like to pass on our condolences to family and friends of the Rally Car co-driver who passed away in an accident on the Sunshine Coast during the Rally. Our thoughts are with them during this most difficult time. Our thoughts are also with the driver and we wish him a speedy recovery.
